

Dylan Mulvaney: Spookgender

by Sprankles

March 31, 2023

Dylan Mulvaney joins the ranks of such household names as Kaitlyn Jenner and Lia Thomas, bravely going where no man has gone before, namely the women's restroom. If you have been spared knowledge of his existence, then buckle up for some first rate gay spookery. He is yet another episode in the hit series 'Gender Swapped Spook', but this time they've pulled out all the stops, and the casting budget is quite high. Going forward, I would like to refer to this type of operative as a 'spookgender'. The spookgender is one who engages in the sort of cross-dressing, gender-confusing activity which the media of both sides are obsessed with. They send common English through a meat grinder in the hopes that you will be sufficiently confused by their vapid babbling to either give up or become incensed. Time and time again, we are expected to treat these people as if their renown is a natural outgrowth of public sympathy and attention.

The script is as follows...

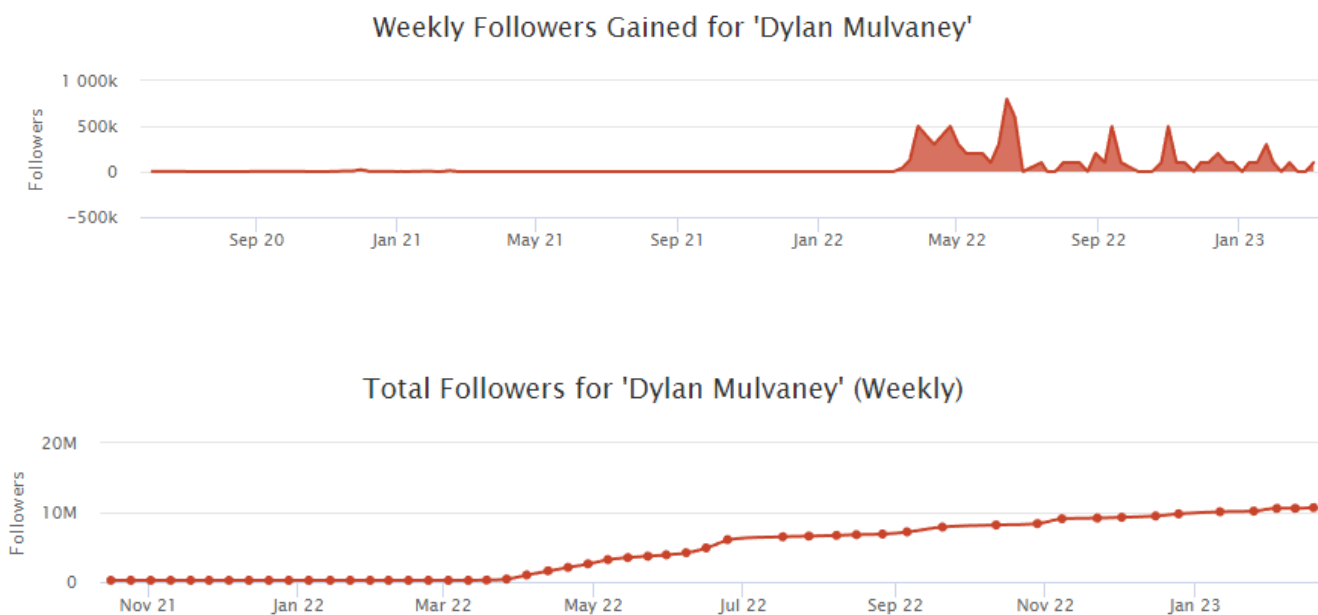

Dylan Mulvaney is 26 years old and graduated with a BA in Musical Theater from University of Cincinnati shortly before joining the cast of an award winning Broadway musical 'Book of Mormon'. Aka the Broadway musical Philosemitic. Losing his job during pandemic shutdowns, he turned to the app TikTok as a creative outlet. In 2022 he comes out as transgender, and then grows his online presence by documenting this awakening in a series called 'Days of Girlhood'. In it, he counts each day of transition, charting a course from the port of Man to Woman™.

The first and easiest red flags show up in the timeline we are given. Graduating in 2019, he promptly jumps onboard one of the highest grossing Broadway musicals that same July. I'm sure most students fresh out of college leapfrog into such lucrative opportunities, justifying the exorbitant cost of tuition.

“When the pandemic hit, I was doing the Broadway musical Book of Mormon. I found myself jobless and without the creative means to do what I loved. I downloaded TikTok, assuming it was a kids' app. Once I came out as a woman, I made this "day one of being a girl" comedic video. And it blew up. I really don't know another place online like TikTok that can make a creator grow at the rate that it does.” Other than Langley.

Bit of a weird way to put that: you're an unemployed, bored, hyper-gay man and you download an app that you think is for kids? Perhaps a reveal of his target audience or a personal fetish.

Above are his follower stats on SocialBlade. 10M followers in eight months, yeah! His first video is uploaded on 3/11/2020, on a boat at Niagara Falls. Every video is just a bony twink prancing about for comedic effect. The graph starts in Nov '21, with 230k followers, but we can see that his growth is relatively slow until the scheduled bot swarm. On 3/11/2022, exactly one year after creating the account, he declares himself a woman. Very organic timing. The day after, his 'Days of Girlhood' series commences, and the bot count lifts off into the millions.

Day 188 is a panel appearance at the Forbes Annual Women's Summit.

He is interviewing President Biden on his 222nd day of being a woman(or October 10, 2022). Most women on their 222nd day of existence are still suckling, so he's way ahead of the pack.

In recent news, he hosted an 80 minute long 'cabaret show' at the Rainbow Room of Rockefeller Center, to celebrate his 365th day as a woman. That show was on Monday, 3/13.

The same day, Dylan was on Drew Barrymore's show to to throw more chum in the water for Anti-spookgenders. Notably, Drew kneels down in front of him, maybe he outranks her?

Duke Mulvaney?

He is alleged to have undergone hormone treatment and facial feminization surgery to further his transition, however, I can notice no change that can't be attributed to hair removal, photoshop, makeup, or temporary fillers. I'll spare you the images of him in a dress showing us that there has been no physical manifestation of female hormones.

He also frequently associates with Jonathan Van Ness, of Queer Eye, who has even more glaring ties to peerage. Wikipedia reveals Jonathan is a descendant of the Oakley family, who links to Spencers and Hamiltons. They operate an Illinois based media company jointly founded with the Lindsay family in 1835. The Lindsay peerage list is several pages worth of people, but also links to the Hamiltons and Spencers again, as well as the Mays who we will see later. The Lindsays and Nesses are both Stuarts, related to the the Kings of Europe. See for instance Kaiser Wilhelm's grandson Prince Friedrich, who married Lady Brigid Guinness in 1945. The year after he drowned, she married Gordon Stuart Ness. Her three sons are Princes of Prussia. Her daughter Antonia married the Duke of Wellington.

Dylan Mulvaney's parentage is a fun game, his father featuring prominently and his mother scarcely. Starting with his father James Mulvaney, we are fed another fake story meant to test our gullibility. He is reportedly a former substance addict who gained sobriety by baking 500 cookies a week, and has continued to do so for over 20 years. No, I am not kidding, and somehow Dylan is still an anorexic. There are multiple sites pushing this, Inspire More, CBS News and the San Diego Tribune.

Father and son. Where's the mother?

Lets look at Donna L May first, who has a Hemingway and a Rothschild in her potential relatives.

San Diego is the fathers residence, Poway is home of drone manufacturer General Atomics. El Cajon appears to be a hub of aerospace companies along with an airfield. Santa Ana is just North of John Wayne airport. Palm Springs is home to an International Airport and nearby 29 Palms, with Palm Desert right next door. La Mesa will come up again, and is a popular destination for military personnel stationed at Point Loma and North Island Naval bases.

Looking more into Donna, we find an obit for a Donna 'Dixie' May (nee Bailey), survived by her husband Paul, with four unnamed children. Property records show an apartment owned by Donna and Paul May, with secondary ownership by presumed daughter Tamara May, which judging by the pictures below, means I've found Dylans aunt.

Donna May/Morgan/Mulvaney

Looking into Paul May, an email address on his mylife, and a hint in Donna's obit send us to Orange Coast Testing Inc, a company based in Santa Ana linked to defense and aerospace industries. (OCTI, Oct – 1...) His website indicates it is a family business, and that Paul May is a Junior. Paul May Sr is 93, CEO of Decisive Testing Inc, another defense affiliated testing company, founded 1968. Donna is said to have been a homemaker.

The father, James Mulvaney, is another Junior, with Sr being a former Naval commander turned lawyer, bureaucrat, philanthropist and Padres team President. His wife's obit is linked to his, Mary Ruth Mulvaney nee Rinderer. Ruth is a Hebrew name, and Rinderer is Austrian/Jewish.

Earlier, we saw that James Mulvaney links to possible relatives of the alternative spelling Mulvany. Both spellings are peerage, notably a wealthy family of painters, architects and mining in Ireland. At the peerage, John Skipton Mulvaney is listed, but his six siblings and father are missing, with the family historically using the Mulvany spelling instead.

To recap, Dylan's mother comes from the May family rooted in defense and aerospace companies, who left her son with James Mulvaney, a cookie monster with a history of drug abuse living in the affluent burbs of San Diego.

Miles: These Mays may link us to British Prime Minister Theresa May. We have already seen the family has peerage ties, so it is probably through his mother he is related to van Ness and the rest. Theresa May is a May through her husband, Sir Philip May, a banker named in the Panama Papers. The May barons come out of Prudential Assurance in the late 1800s, marrying the Strausses and Flemings. Jewish. The third married a Skipton. We also find possible peerage links for the Mulvaney. See John Skipton Mulvaney, who married a Burke, daughter of Anne Smith. We have been looking at these Smiths this week, haven't we, so this is all coming together beautifully, as usual. Anne Smith's father is James Smith of Yarrow House, Yorkshire, West Riding, so these are indeed the same Smiths, related to the bankers of Nottingham. And where did we see that? In my paper on Charles Bronson and the Krays, where we saw the Smiths of Nottingham and the West Riding 29 times in a short paper. And we can make another crosslink: In that section on the Krays, we saw they were related to the Viscounts Wentworth through the Noels. Well, in my even more recent paper on the Farrells yesterday, we saw Colin Farrell is related to the Wentworths through the Tyrrells. So these Smiths link up all three of these papers, making cousins out of the Krays, Farrells, AND Mulvaney. How's that for some confluence of research? Plus, I guess you just caught another link above: John Skipton Mulvaney and the Skiptons, in-laws of the Mays. Is that a coincidence? No, because the name has been fudged. It should be John Skipton Mulvaney. There have been no Skiptons in the peerage since the 1600s, when they changed it to Skipton. I guess you see what that means: Dylan Mulvaney's parents are cousins. The two families have been marrying for centuries.

But there's more. The Mays were also baronets, and the daughter of the 2nd married a Chichester, of the Marquesses of Donegall, who link us directly the Hamiltons, Dukes of Hamilton. Through him we link to the Murrays, Douglasses, Stuarts, Gerards (Isaac Newton), Spencers, and Gordons. See Gordon Stuart Ness above, linking Mulvaney and van Ness as cousins.

While his parents scarcely make appearances on his social media, an older woman pops up in them again and again. He spends time with her on major holidays going by the titles and dates of his videos. He features her in them alongside another unnamed girl, often singing in the woods or to various farm animals. A sort of hippie veneer prior to his spookgender transition. He only gives her name in this article:

When the pandemic hit, and I lost that job, I thought, “There’s no part to play, so I get to finally be myself.” I was back living at home with my family, and I ended up visiting my best friends on a farm. One is Lorraine, the coolest woman I know, who’s in her sixties and a sheep herder. Lorraine’s wardrobe is exploding with color. She would dress me up and put me in a field with sheep, and for a moment, I adopted her feminine style.”

For me, this gives a lot away at once, the insult is clear. They are herding sheep. He has been dressed up, and is for this moment, only adopting a style. Placed amidst the flock to shepherd them into their respective pens.

Finding her last name was a bit of a strange trek, searching for sheep farmers named Lorraine in San Diego. From the Creative Weavers Guild I find the name linked to Powell Sheep Co. I confirm the name Powell for Lorraine by another Dylan post where he links to the younger woman’s instagram profile, the bio revealing that she is Mae Powell.

Lorraine Powell (nee Wilder) is another woman who is estranged from her husband, but curiously kept his name. An article from the NY Times in 1985 congratulates Lorraine and Craig Powell on their nuptials. In it we learn that Lorraine’s father was the chairman of Lewis, Gilmen and Kynett, the dominant advertising and public relations company of Philadelphia. Lorraine got set up as the Assistant Director of Advertising for Urban Outfitters, which got its start in ...Philadelphia. Nepotism makes the job hunt easy. Miles points out in his paper on the CIA and Art that Urban Outfitters pushes the OBEY line of elite-gloating merchandise, along with the feminization of men and men’s fashion. Father Robert G Wilder was also Lt Commander in the Navy Reserves. Husband Craig Powell is presently Chief of Surgery at a VA hospital in NC.

Fpo, AE is the most glaring of the locations list, being a mailing address for the Armed Forces of Europe. Marion, VA is home of General Dynamics Plant 1(Abrams tank). Honolulu is a big Navy hub with Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam. Groton MA is north of Fort Deven. Bethesda and Silver Spring Maryland are both DC and Langley adjacent. Funnily enough, the Mormon Washington DC temple is smack between Bethesda and Silver Spring, meaning Dylan's claim to Book of Mormon may be an inside joke. La Mesa came up earlier with Dylan's maternal line, and must be where these two worlds met, and Lorraine became the handler. The persistent occurrence of mothers not sticking around with their husbands hints that all parties involved are gay, but don't need their beards around any longer.

I may have spent an excessive amount of time diving down rabbit holes, but there it is, spooks on all sides, immediate family and otherwise. As Miles has showed us, they love delivering themselves as rags to riches stories, overcoming all odds with raw talent and persistence. When you watch a Stallone movie, you don't question why he never runs out of bullets, why the bad guys never seem to hit him, and why he's able to single-handedly dispatch entire armies. They expect the same suspension of disbelief from you for these stunts. There is an ample supply of flamboyant theater majors with questionable sexual habits, but this is the one that gets to interview the President and waltz around Rockefeller Center. The millions of likes aren't bots, they're real people! A basic military tactic: inflate the enemy's perception of your manpower and hope he doesn't realize that the numbers are on his side.

I probably would never have heard about Dylan had it not been for his opposition, who play their part to legitimize the fiction of his popularity and influence. It has been made incredibly obvious that he is an actor, having featured on Ellen and The Price is Right before having any online presence, so he is clearly connected and like everyone on game-shows and in the audiences of late night hosts, not real. Any 'opposition' not reaching that conclusion is a co-star in his performance. While I can dismiss agents like Dylan by saying that the millions of followers are bots, and his media tour a circus, their attack is having an impact. I can say that I have seen them myself, and heard enough second-hand stories, to know that not all the of the transgender population is made up of actors.

Childhood is a confusing experience already, and there is now an army of clinicians chomping at the bit to poison, sterilize and mangle at the first sign of insecurity. In a sickly, ruinous society being wrung dry by mansion skulking parasites, it would follow that many become depressed, anxious, and confused. They have been robbed of purpose and identity, their bodies contaminated with pharmacology and pollution. The solution to your lack of proper sexual and mental development is not to remove the toxic influences of your environment, like estrogenic micro-plastics and food products, but to take our drugs. Pretty soon they might be putting young boys on testosterone replacement therapy, since they will have no men fit enough to fight their fake wars. In either case, the direct effect will be infertility and cancer, both requiring further medical intervention.

The spookgender op, among others, feel like a parting shot. Sure, it grows the medical con, causes confusion, degrades gender relations, and destroys language, but they are killing the host. Most of this attack has been focused on the middle and lower-upper classes, as nobody in lower or working classes are going to a psychiatrist or getting surgery. What will they do when the children are too damaged to exploit? Too damaged to reproduce? Maybe they see the writing on the wall, and are getting their last licks in before retreating underground.

And in other news, the story about Douglass Mackey, 33, of West Palm Beach being found guilty of a 2016 Tweet mocking Hillary Clinton and facing ten years in prison is also fake. Why would it take six years to prosecute this minor fake crime, which should have been thrown out immediately as free speech? Why would this come out of Brooklyn if Mackey is from Florida? No federal courts in Florida? More importantly, why does his name and age throw up three red flags? Because it is all an Intel signal. You know about 33. The Douglasses are top peers, same as Stuarts. And the Mackeys are Jewish, related to top peers. Think John Mackey of Whole Foods, who I have hit before. This is another trash CIA project to cause fear and shut down people like me, since we will think we might be prosecuted for talking about things online. This project is directed right at me, but as you see it isn't working.

We are told that Mackey was rated by MIT as the 107th most important influencer in the 2016 election. Right. This 26-year-old nobody who no one has ever heard of was an important influencer. My question: why not 108th most important?

We also know it is fake because Tucker Carlson is now devoting an entire segment to it, selling it as real. He wants to be sure you saw it, because it is hoped you will then police yourself more tightly, not making any jokes about stupid voters or anything else.

Many people and outlets are calling this ruling a dangerous precedent, but it isn't even that, as I am showing you. It is just another fake ruling out of a fake CIA court, so it has no legal standing and sets no precedent. It is just the usual mindfick, trying to fool you into censoring yourself out of fear of prosecution. It is the usual bluff, like 99% of everything else you are looking at these days.
